Wheeling People Own it.

The Wellsburg-Leasureville electric railway, about which many have been skeptical from the start, is a sure go Messrs. J. A. Miller and Alfred Paull, who were granted the franchise by the Wellsburg council, have filed their acweisburg council, have nied their ac-ceptance of the city's ordinance, have given their check for the $1,000 bonus re-quired and entered into a bond to begin work in thirty days and complete the line in ninety days. Belief is general that the road will in time be extended to Wheeling, either by the river route or via Bethany and West Liberty.

Parke's Large Outing.

Ideal weather was a contributing factor to one of the biggest picnics of the summer yesterday at breezy Mozart park. The affair was the annual outing of Parke division, A. O. H., assisted by of Parke division, A. O. H., assisted by its ladies' auxiliary, and sister lodges of this city, Benwood and Beliaire Joined in rolling up a crowd of 3,890 people. The incline was kept busy hauling the crowds in the evening and all enjoyed themselves to the limit. The feature of the day was the ladies' bowling contest, participated in by the auxiliaries of Parke, Mullen and Benwood divisions, and the fair ten-pin rollers from Parke carried off the honors. The ladies served refreshments, and dancing to the music of the Grand Opera House band, was liberally indulged in afternoon and evening.

THE Rev. W. B. Costley, of Stock-bridge, Ga., while attending to his pas-toral duties at Ellenwood, that state, was attacked by choiera morbus. He says: "By chance I happened to get hold of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic. Choiera and Diarrhoea Hemedy, and I think it was the means of sawing my life. It relieved me at once." For sale by druggists.

DANGEROUS CRAFT

A Sunken Nitro-Glycerine Boat a the La Belle Landing

CREATED GREAT EXCITEMENT

On South Side Westerday Afternoon and Steamboatmen Were Warned to "Tread Gently" in that Stretch of the River-The Craft Sent on its way Rejoicing Late in the day, and the Danger is Over.

A large-sized panic seized the natives of the Eighth ward yesterday afternoon and with good cause. The presence of over 400 quarts of pure nitro-glycerine, unguarded and approachable, is enough to waft a feeling of terror through any community. This amount of the dangerous stuff was secreted in a barge, tied at the La Belle landing, at the foot of Thirty-fifth street, all of the afternoon, and it wasn't moved until the authorities took a hand in the

About 1 o'clock, a stranger in a skiff, towing a barge with the significant red flag at its head, chose the La Belle mag at its head, choose the Lis Jour-landing as a halting place in his jour-ney from a town above Pittsburgh to the Sistersville oil country, and after making his craft secure he disappeared. A red flag never passes by unnoticed. It is the symbol of anarchy, and the accompaniment of the auctioneer's hammer. Like its yellow brother it has always a deep significance. When at-tached to a small river craft the spec-tator instantly knows that dynamite or nitro-glycerine isn't far away, and consequently silence is golden in that mmediate vicinity.

Thus the spectacle at the river front soon spread alarm about the Eighth ward, and in the meantime the barge sunk until it was almost entirely cov ered by water. Attempts to locate the pilot were futile until about 5 p. m., when Officer Rolf corraled his man. Sheriff Richards had been telephoned for, and reached the scene accompanied by Jesse McCausland, a broker in ex-plosives. When interrogated, Officer Rolf's prisoner became very frightened, and said that he landed when he did because the fumes from the nitro-glycerine made him so sick that he had to seek a drug store. He was only too glad to be permitted to continue his journey, and promised not to land again until he reached Sistersville. He said he had about 400 quarts of the stuff, but it looked as though he was minimizing the amount, as the barge was nearly full.

Assisted by another man, whom he pressed into service, the stranger bailed his barge out, using a board, for to use a tin bucket or other metallic vesse was likely to promote a concussion that would have touched the stuff off, and the quantity was large enough to have shaken the whole Eighth ward. While the balling-out process was on, the crowd viewing the operation kept at a respectful distance, but not far enough away had the nitro-glycerine exploded. Throughout the afternoon, anxious mothers were busy keeping their children away from the scene, and the feat of danger amounted to a general

About 6 o'clock the dangerous craft pulled out for down the river. It is said the Leroy stopped at the landing during the afternoon, not noticing the barge, and the wonder is that no explo-sion occurred. The man with the glycerine claimed swells from the Leroy sunk his barge, but his statements were not wholly credited.

PROF. BIRCH RETURNS

From an Eastern Trip-Talks Concerning the Military Matter. Prof. John M. Birch returned from New York yesterday, where he has been on a business journey. On having his attention called to a local article in the Intelligencer of yesterday concerning the probability of his organizing a company for the First regiment of the new state National Guard, he said he would be giad to have the honor of that com-mission from the state military depart-ment. In referring to the matter yes-terday, the Intelligencer Inadvertently stated that Professor Birch had written terday, the Intelligencer inadvertently stated that Professor Birch had written to Aujutant General Appleton on the subject, naking for the commission. It should have been stated that friends of Professor Birch had so written in his absence, and suggested voluntarily that, the professor be the one delegated. There is no doubt that the request will be granted, for the selection would be a good and a popular one.

Having retired from the Linsty, Professor Birch is now engaged in a business that is not so confining, and one which gives him a better opportunity to keep in close touch with the other portions of the state, and the leading business men everywhere. His connection with the new National Guard would not interfere with his duties, but, in fact, would be an advantage in bringing him in contact with all parts of West Virginia. His many friends will be glad to know that in his new calling he is meeting with great encouragement.

compared with us these days. We are between two seasons—pushing out the remnants of summer—welcoming the advance guard of fall. The tables in our receiving room are groaning under the weight of the grandest stock of Clothing that has ever been produced—the lightweight Overcoats, the first thoughts, are ready. Almost in sight are the Suits that are to take the place of the thin, airy galments of to-day, Nowhere else will you see such a congregation of fine fabrics-artfully designed-skillfully fitted-faultlessly tailored—as exclusive in pattern as they are elegant in finish.

Created to our special order, will come a mighty host of novelties for the Boys' and Children's department. The Hats and Furnishings have each been tuned on the same chords of perfection and completeness. We have stood upon the shoulders of a successful past and grasped that perfection that knows no improvement. Congratulate yourselves-for our triumphs are the people's.
